

Good IT people
come and go.
Good systems are forever.

With the right IT systems in place, new people can step into established procedures and processes without missing a beat. Making talent important, not indispensable. And making departing IT people look heroic for leaving the company in good shape, while positioning incoming people for success.

Without effective systems, your performance is only as good as the talent at hand. If that talent isn't superlative, leaves the company, or doesn't work up to potential, you suffer the consequences: Lost productivity, lost knowledge, extensive retraining costs...over and over again.

Turn the tables on the talent dilemma. Hire Mission Critical Systems to develop, test, install and maintain systems critical to your long-term success. We can work with your existing IT department or function as a completely outsourced entity.

Mission Critical Systems:
Because IT is more than talent du jour.

You're good.
We'll make you better.

MISSION CRITICAL SYSTEMS

621 17th Street, Ste. 2121 Denver, CO 80293

303.383.1MCS

303.383.5007

mcstech.net

When good doctors stop listening, it's time to go.
Practicing good medicine shouldn't go with them.

No right-minded hospital would pin its medical expertise on just one doctor. While important, talent shouldn't dictate an organization's success or failure. With the right policies and medical procedures in place, new doctors can step in capably.

IT is no different. With the right systems in place, new people can step into established procedures and processes without missing a beat. Making talent important, not indispensable. Departing IT people look heroic for leaving the company in good shape, while positioning incoming people for success.

Without effective systems, your performance is only as good as the talent at hand. If that talent isn't superlative, leaves the company, or doesn't work up to potential, you suffer the consequences: Lost productivity, lost knowledge, extensive retraining costs...over and over again.

Turn the tables on the talent dilemma. Hire Mission Critical Systems to develop, test, install and maintain systems so critical to your long-term success. We can work with your existing IT department or function as a completely outsourced entity.

Mission Critical Systems:
Because IT is more than talent du jour.

When IT counts, count on Mission Critical.™

MISSION CRITICAL SYSTEMS

621 17th Street, Ste. 2121 Denver, CO 80293

P 303.383.1MCS

F 303.383.5007

W mcstech.net

Restaurants that live or die with one chef are precarious ventures at best.

While important, talent shouldn't dictate success or failure. With the right recipes, ingredients, utensils, and processes, new people can step in seamlessly.

IT is no different. With the right systems in place, new people can step into established procedures and processes without missing a beat. Making talent important, not indispensable. Departing IT people look heroic for leaving the company in good shape, while positioning incoming people for success.

Without effective systems, your performance is only as good as the talent at hand. If that talent isn't superlative, leaves the company, or doesn't work up to potential, you suffer the consequences: Lost productivity, lost knowledge, extensive retraining costs...over and over again.

Turn the tables on the talent dilemma. Hire Mission Critical Systems to develop, test, install and maintain systems so critical to your long-term success. We can work with your existing IT department or function as a completely outsourced entity.

Mission Critical Systems:
Because IT is more than talent du jour.

IT prepared to order.

MISSION
CRITICAL
SYSTEMS

621 17th Street, Ste. 2121 Denver, CO 80293

P 303.383.1MCS F 303.383.5007 W mcstech.net

Good football players come and go. Good systems play on ... and win.

Good professional football teams develop systems that new players can step into easily. No one player is indispensable, as Denver Broncos' running backs have discovered—stepping into Terrell Davis's shoes since the late nineties.

IT is no different. With the right systems in place, new people can step into established procedures and processes without missing a beat. Making talent important, not indispensable. Departing IT people look heroic for leaving the company in good shape, while positioning incoming people for success.

Without effective systems, your performance is only as good as the talent at hand. If that talent isn't superlative, leaves the company, or doesn't work up to potential, you suffer the consequences: Lost productivity, lost knowledge, extensive retraining costs...over and over again.

Turn the tables on the talent dilemma. Hire Mission Critical Systems to develop, test, install and maintain systems so critical to your long-term success. We can work with your existing IT department or function as a completely outsourced entity.

Mission Critical Systems:
Because IT is more than talent du jour.

We'll keep you in the game.

MISSION
CRITICAL
SYSTEMS

621 17th Street, Ste. 2121 Denver, CO 80293

P 303.383.1MCS F 303.383.5007 W mcstech.net

